INTRODUCTION:

The prevailing business and economic condition affect a company's valuation. The value of a company is determined with the help of professional insight, along with an in-depth knowledge of valuation techniques and methodologies. Knowing what an asset is worth and what determines that value is a pre-requisite for intelligent decision making, in choosing investments for a portfolio, in deciding the appropriate price to pay or receive in a takeover and in making investment, as well as financing and dividend choices while running a business. We can make reasonable estimates of value for most assets, and the same fundamental principles determine the values of all types of assets, real as well as financial. This Course offers insights into the valuation process and outlines the role that valuation plays in portfolio management, acquisition analysis and corporate finance. In finance, valuation analysis is required for tax assessment, business analysis, basic bookkeeping and accounting, etc. During the three days, all sessions will have a highly technical content.

OBJECTIVE:

This Course will provide the fundamentals of each approach to valuation, together with limitations and caveats on the use of each, as well as extended examples of the application of each. At the end, participants should be able to –
